Sodikart electric go-kart potential entrapment hazard

NAFLIC has been informed by a UK inspection body of a potential entrapment/drawing in hazard on an electric go-kart vehicle(s) manufactured by French company Sodikart.

The vehicles in question were brand new at the time of inspection and were operational at a venue in the Middle East. The IB involved noted the potential for entrapment/a drawing in hazard around one of the front wheels of the vehicle as there is no protective cover in this area and the driver's foot would come very close to it when in operation. (See accompanying image).
